

The Cancer Committee of the Jackson Health System and the University of Miami Sylvester Cancer Center is hosting a seminar entitled "Colon Cancer: Prevention, Diagnosis and Treatment".

This event will take place on Friday September 15, 2006 in Jackson Memorial Hospital's Diagnostic Treatment Center (DTC) room 259, from 9:30 AM until 4:00 PM. Presenters will include Surgeons from the Division of Colon & Rectal Surgery, a Radiation Oncologist, a nutritionist and other health care professionals. A full day of education focusing on risk factors, prevention, diagnostic techniques, treatment, survival and new discoveries will be presented.

Breakfast and lunch will be served. Reservations can be made by contacting Aida Pazos at APazos@um-jmh.org, or AMoody@um-jmh.org. Both can be reached by phone at (305) 585-6038.

This meeting is free and open to the general public and all medical center staff.
